Open House Note From Ms. Rizzo

I will be unable to attend open house because I will be in Chicago for my daughter's medical school graduation. Student work from humanities will be available in Ms. Lindsey's room for you to take home. Group posters will also be on display.

I am sorry to miss this important event. Please enjoy the evening. Your student's have made impressive strides this year.

Hello Families!

Students worked on group projects exploring the accomplishments and legacy of ancient Greece. This included, research, visual representation and an oral presentation.

We continued watching The Odyssey and exploring some of the literary themes in Homer's epic poem. Odysseus has finally realized that he is just one man in the world. He has overcome his hubris.

Students held the memorial ceremony for our pharaohs and they have been interred in their final resting place.

Many students created posters for the Youthquake contest. I will be delivering them to Riley Street in San Rafael for judging.

Math/Science

Hello!

This week students have been exploring and researching different scientists. We are tracking how scientists have worked to achieve their careers and dreams.

In addition, we've discussed the history of how science became what it is today, and the different people that played a role in different scientific achievements.

Best,

Ms. Lindsey
